Schools damaged in vandals' attack

by STIRLING MORITA and PAM BIGFORD

Vandals extensively damaged two area schools during the weekend, leaving destruction that may climb as high as $100,000 at one school, police said.

Police Sunday were searching for vandals who smashed numerous windows and damaged classrooms and offices in Gregory School, 400 E. Gregory St., Mount Prospect, and Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton St., Arlington Heights.

"I've seen some bad damage, but not anything like that," said Mount Prospect Sgt. Richard Yost. "Everything of any value was damaged."

Police suspect the two incidents may be connected because of similar types of destruction and evidence found in the schools, police said.

MOUNT PROSPECT Dist. 57 officials said at least $25,000 in damage to the building was caused at Gregory School, Mount Prospect. Although school officials did not have an estimate on equipment damage at the school, Mount Prospect police reported the final property loss figure may rise as high as $100,000.

Windows, water fountains, toilet fixtures, desks, projectors, record players, a copy machine, typewriters, furniture and bookcases were smashed. Yost said a safe, refrigerator and lockers were thrown down the steps. A telephone was ripped from the wall, and a soda-pop machine rifled, but it was not known if any change was taken.

Police said baseball bats, pool cues and two-by-four boards apparently were used to do most of the damage. Vandals entered the building by breaking a window, and police found blood on jagged edges of glass and the school's floor. The vandals broke into the nurse's office, apparently "to patch themselves up," police reported.

Michael Smith, Gregory School principal, said volunteers from the school staff would be in today to help clear away the wreckage.

THE SCHOOL, which serves behaviorally disordered children under the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, should open when children return from Christmas vacation Jan. 5, but the decision will not be made until Wednesday, said Earl Sutter, Dist. 57 superintendent.

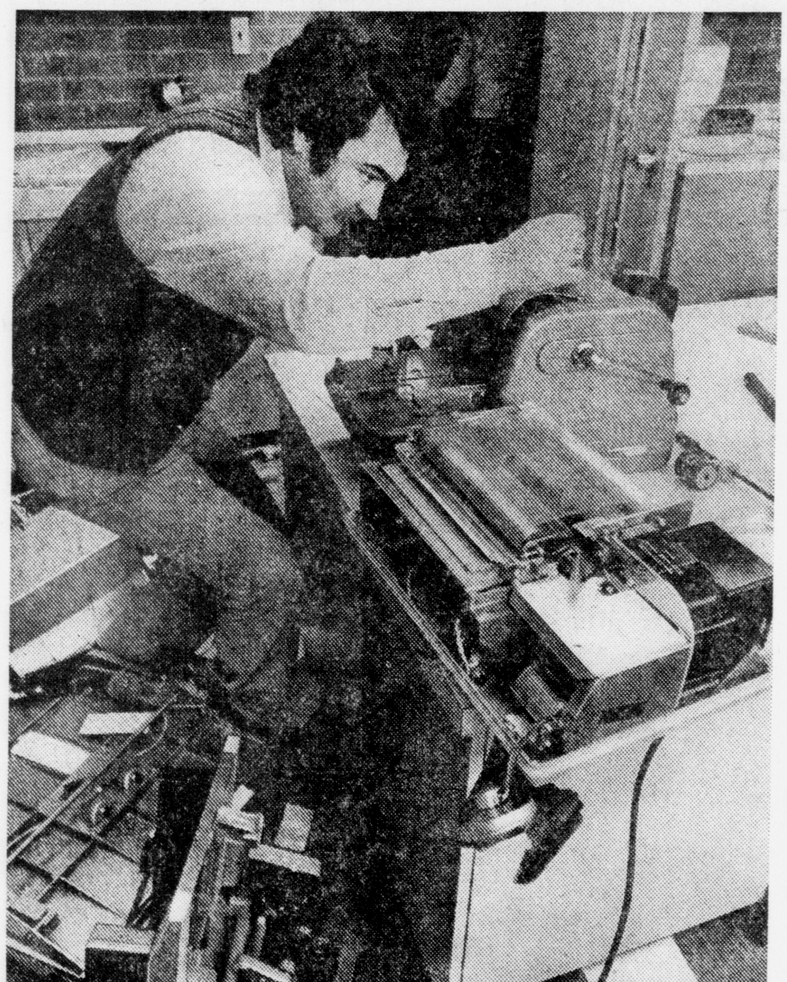

Dunton School, for the second time within a week, was broken into. Damage reported Saturday was about $15,000, and the break-in reported Tuesday accounted for about $3,250 in damage.

Vandals were unable to enter five classrooms of the building. Damaged were windows, desks, audio-visual equipment and typewriters. Television sets were destroyed, and filing cabinets and bookcases overturned. Every window inside the building was shattered, Arlington Heights police said. Entry was made by breaking a glass window in a door.

Donald Strong, Arlington Heights Dist. 25 superintendent, said Dunton School will open Jan. 5, though repairs may not be completed.

"It'll be as neat and tidy as possible," he said. "All we can do is straighten it up. I can't remember any time in this district that vandalism has been so extensive."

Strong said he was determined to find the vandals because "these guys have got a next step. They're not going to stop here. And I don't want to see that next step."

Finance panel to draft garbage rates tonight

The Arlington Heights Village Board's finance committee will meet tonight to draft a new garbage rate recommendation.

The board Dec. 15 rejected the committee's proposal giving Laseke Disposal Co. a 9.8 per cent increase in 1976.

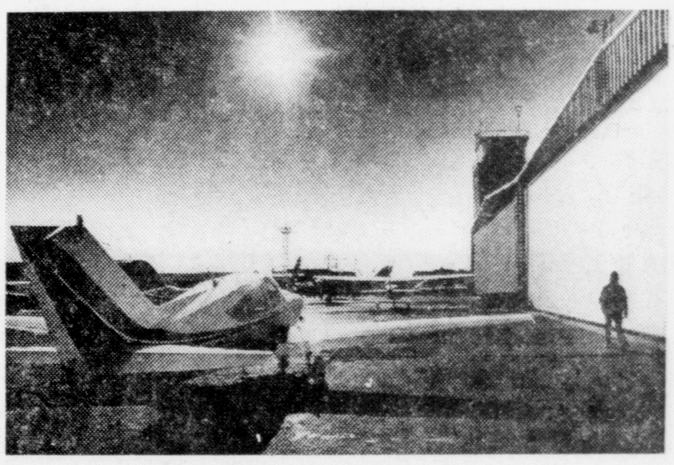

Under the proposal, the monthly residential garbage bill would have gone from $5.39 to $5.92 and would have taken effect Jan. 1.

Laseke's exclusive five-year contract with the village guarantees the company a 5 per cent annual increase and the right to request additional raises based upon documentation of extraordinary increases in its business costs.

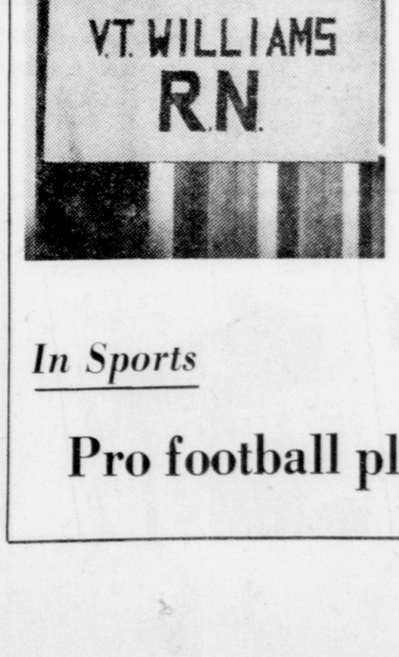

Several village trustees questioned whether Laseke should be compensated for increased fuel prices and higher ocial Security payments for his employes.

Only 8.2 cents of the 53-cent monthly increase recommended by the finance committee is to cover these two areas. The automatic 5 per cent increase amounts to about 26 cents and extra disposal costs at the Wauconda landfill adds almost 20 cents to the monthly bill under the proposal.

The committee will meet at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Park district officials advise:

'Skaters beware of untested ice'

by PAM BIGFORD

If you can't skate on a park district ice rink, don't skate at all.

That's the advice given by Northwest suburban park district officials to adults and children who are ready to take to the ice during the school holidays and the remainder of winter.

Most suburban park districts offer at least one or two man-made rinks which are maintained and supervised by the district. While other bodies of water may look tempting and appear safe, moving water in rivers and ponds make them very unreliable, officials say.

A PARTICULARLY dangerous body of water is the Des Plaines River. "As far as I'm concerned, the river is not safe for skating," says Robert Kunkel, Des Plaines Park District director.

"I would caution youngsters to take some ice checks before they go out to skate, and if signs are posted, adhere to them," Kunkel says.

Kunkel says an ice check can be made by using a drill or ice chopper to inspect the thickness of the ice at several places. If the ice is only three or four inches thick, it is not safe, he says, especially since thickness can vary on a river with a moving current.

He warns that ice can look deceptively solid when there is snow on top of it, but when the snow melts it creates "slush ice," which is not as hard as "blue ice," the natural hard ice on lakes.

KUNKEL SAYS there are 14 park district ice rinks in Des Plaines, with only one, Lake Opeka, on a natural lake. He says the district's policy requires that a lake have seven inches of solid ice before skating is allowed so that the ice can support large crowds of skaters.

Kathy Franke, program supervisor for the Elk Grove Park District, says the district warns against skating on lakes or creeks.

"We do not condone any ice skating on the lakes or on the creek in Elk Grove Village," she says. "We tell the youngsters not to do it, but they'll often skate anyway.

"We suggest they not even walk across the ice on the creek or lakes. They might be in an isolated area where help is hard to find."

FIVE ICE RINKS are supervised by the Elk Grove Village Park District. All are man-made on hard surfaces, Ms. Franke says.

All the rinks have a guard on duty after school, at night and on the weekends to maintain order on the ice and to provide aid in case of an emergency. Warming shelters also are provided.

Most districts provide telephone numbers for residents to call for skating information, and some also post signs outside rinks describing ice conditions.

At the five ice rinks in Hoffman Estates, colored flags are used to indicate ice conditions. A green flag means the ice is thick enough for skating and the rink is supervised; a yellow flag means the ice is safe for skating but there is no supervision provided; and a red flag means the ice is not safe for skating.

HIGHLAND, HIGH POINT and Evergreen parks in Hoffman Estates are supervised and have warming houses, officials say. The district also provides skating in cooperation with Woodfield Ice Arena in Schaumburg.

In Rolling Meadows, residents can dial park district offices at 392-4380, and a recorded message will tell them what rinks are safe for skating and when public skating is available.

Officials say yellow barrels with the word "danger" printed on them are placed at rinks where the ice is not safe. At Kimball Hill Park, supervision is provided on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, and hockey playing is forbidden during supervision hours.

Wheeling Park District supervises two ice skating rinks at Heritage Park, one for hockey and one for free skating. Officials say signs are posted to describe ice conditions and residents can call the park district for skating information.

SKATERS ARE supervised at both Community and Birchwood parks in Palatine, and rinks at Willow, Maple and Ashwood parks are maintained but not supervised, Palatine Park District officials say.

Palatine residents are also allowed to skate at Palatine Hills Golf Course Lake, but the ice there is not maintained or supervised. Information about the skating conditions at the parks and the golf course lake is available by calling 359-0256.

In spite of precautions taken, skaters have fallen into icy water. Officials say the safest way to rescue a person from the water is to use a rope or branch to pull him out.

"You should throw him anything you can find to give him a lifeline instead of going in after him," says Elk Grove firefighter Jack Hanko.

"If there is nothing to throw him, people should lay spread-eagle on the ice and form a human chain with their hands," Hanko says. "That way if another person falls through there are still other people holding on to those in the water."

Hanko says "only as a last resort" should a person alone go out onto the ice to try to rescue a person in the water, and "the guy who does that runs the risk of going through the ice himself."

Portents of political warfare in the '76 Congress

by STEVE GERSTEL

A news analysis

When Democrats swaggered into town last January, they were so impressed by their numbers that nothing seemed impossible in the 94th Congress.

After all, hadn't President Ford warned the nation against a "veto-proof" Congress in his campaign speeches the previous fall?

And hadn't the country — in the wake of Watergate scandals — elected Democrats in landslide proportions?

Wasn't a 290-145 majority in the House and 62-38 edge in the Senate large enough for a Democratic Congress to ram through legislation over Ford's objections?

AFTER AN ARDUOUS year, Democrats have discovered the answer to all of the above is no.

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona properly labeled the first session of the 94th Congress a "standoff," and predicted the next session would be "more political, more acrimonious" as the 1976 election nears.

The "veto-proof" Congress proved to be a myth. Ford rejected 16 bills passed by the 94th Congress and 11 times, so far, made his vetoes stick.

The three times Congress managed to override his veto came on popular measures involving federal aid to education, health services and nurse training, and the school lunch program. Congress will not act until January on the other two — the $45 billion Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill and legislation to expand the picketing power of construction unions.

Faced with a President willing to tough it out, beset by internal disputes and held back by remnants of the old coalition between Republicans and southern conservatives, the Democrats turned out to be stronger on paper than in action.

AS A RESULT, it was a year of frustrating confrontation with the White House.

When New York City's financial plight became dire, Congress was ready to approve legislation providing federal loan guarantees. Ford said no.

But the city and state started putting financial affairs in order and Ford agreed to support $2.3 billion in direct federal loans. Congress took him up on it.

Score one for Ford.

When Ford proposed extending tax cuts, he said they must be coupled with a $395 billion spending ceiling for fiscal 1977. Congress said no.

The President vetoed the first tax bill and the House sustained him. But Congress pushed through the same bill with an innocuous promise to cut spending to offset any reduction in taxes. Ford signed it.

SCORE IT a tossup.

Ford insisted energy legislation lift the ceiling on the price of domestically produced oil, while Congress demanded a rollback.

Congress finally sent him a bill which rolls back prices but lets the President decontrol them over a 40-month period. Ford signed the bill.

Score one for Congress.

With Ford challenged by Ronald Reagan for the GOP nomination and the Democrats looking for 1976 campaign issues, the lines can only harden and confrontations increase.

And there won't be any swaggering when Democrats return next month for the second session of the 94th Congress.

U.S., Soviets in costly 'death ray' race: report

LONDON (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union are "locked in a costly 'super scientific' " struggle to develop the first laser beam "death ray" that could alter the world military balance, according to the authoritative Jane's Weapons Systems 1976.

Ronald Pretty, editor of the guide to the latest in death-dealing devices, said in his foreword in the edition to be published today that the two superpowers are probably "locked in a costly 'super scientific' struggle to be the first with a practical laser weapon capable of destroying a military target . . . solely by means of the energy the laser is able to generate and transmit to the target — in fact, the 'death ray' so beloved of generations of fiction writers."

Pretty mentioned what he called guarded reference to high-energy laser beam development in publications of the U.S. Dept. of Defense.

LASER BEAMS are already used in military gunsights and have other military applications. So far their use as battlefield "death rays" has not been possible because of the enormous amount of energy required to produce the narrow but powerful light beam. But they can cause blindness if directed at the naked eye.

The Observer newspaper quoted a "high NATO source" that a "compact" laser is now considered a practical possibility.

Jane's quoted Dr. Malcolm Currie, director of U.S. Defense Research and Engineering, that the Soviet Unit has also made a big investment in high-energy lasers as a military weapon.

But, according to Currie, the United States might still be ahead in fabrication techniques and structural materials.

COMPLEX AND WEIGHTY power, cooling, aiming and controlling systems make the laser anything but a compact weapon, Janes said, but it has feasible military uses.

Laser beams are more likely to be used for military purposes in space before being deployed in ground battles because the "energy transfer efficiency" from laser to target is greater in the absence of any atmosphere.

The laser could be deployed in space warfare to disable an enemy's reconnaissance satellites, according to defense scientists. It could also be incorporated in a future antiballistic missile system to intercept and destroy warheads still outside the earth's atmosphere.

Lasers could also be used at sea if means could be found to transmit their energy through the salt-laden atmosphere over the water.

A PLANE LANDS at Pal-Waukee airport, and the partnership between air-traffic controller and pilot is brought to a safe conclusion. Patches of farmland still flank several runways at the airport, though multiple-family housing has cropped up under the northern flight approach in recent years.

Pal-Waukee air controllers

They guard the airways

by DIANE MERMIGAS

"Cessna two-five Charlie, cleared to land on Runway one-six."

It's not a foreign language; rather, it's typical of the quick messages that bring a plane in for a safe landing and direct a pilot to an uneventful departure.

Such technical jargon fills the traffic-control tower at Pal-Waukee Airport seven days a week throughout the year.

Terse commands, good judgment and the human senses are all that the Pal-Waukee traffic controllers have to rely on to control and organize an average 1,500 planes that land and take off at the airport every day.

A STEADY INCREASE in air traffic over the past five years has placed little strain on the airport's 15 air-traffic controllers, officials there say.

But, the airport, on Palatine Road and Milwaukee Avenue near Wheeling, may have to keep open its five major runways 24 hours a day to accommodate the increasing volume of airplanes in the area, said Leo J. Ullsperger, chief of air-traffic control. The airport currently is open 16 hours a day.

In the three years he's been at Pal-Waukee, air traffic has increased from 201,000 to about 233,000 planes landing and taking off annually.

Most of the planes are owned by individuals and corporations, and Pal-Waukee is popular largely because of its close proximity to Chicago, he said.

"In a 16-hour day, we do more here than they do at most other private airports in the country," Ullsperger said. Pal-Waukee is rated 72nd in traffic out of 388 airports certified by the Federal Aviation Administration. It is the fourth busiest in the Midwest.

THE AIRPORT can accommodate small jets like the Lear, Bac 111 or Gulf Stream II, which are operated by area corporations, he said.

At times, Pal-Waukee has served as a sure standby when weather or runway problems have prompted delays in air traffic at O'Hare Airport.

"When things get jammed up at O'Hare, we can sometimes take on some of the traffic. Air Wisconsin lands its small or 10-passenger planes here, and a few others, but that's about all we can handle," Ullsperger said.

Noise pollution is a problem near any airport, he said.

Apartment and housing developments have sprouted at the northern and southern ends of the airport without protective buffer zones, he said, "so, we have regular groups of residents who complain to us about the noise."

Noise pollution is one of many factors with which the air controller must contend.

From his perch in the glass tower, the controller on clear days can see for 25 miles around.

"It takes concentration, lots of it, to be a good air controller. You have to deal with emergencies when they come up. You have to think clearly and logically," Ullsperger said.

The controllers, some of whom are women, have had to cope with pilots who became disoriented and lost while airborne. And the danger of a collision — in the air and on the ground — is constant.

Ullsperger said a collision "is the kind of thing you try desperately to avoid. And considering the amount of traffic we get in here, we do a pretty good job."

WAYNE DIONNE, an air controller said:

"There's a lot of stisfaction in this job, being able to see what you're doing, making split-second decisions and having them be the right ones — they have to be."

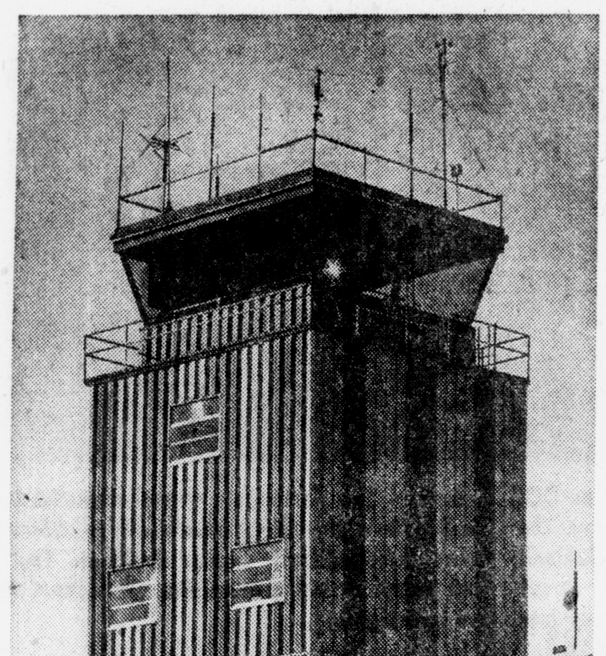

There is as much a growing interest in the air-traffic control profession as there is in aviation, he said, "and there are people from all different fields getting involved in the air-traffic controller's training program."

Former engineers, secretaries and college graduates enroll in the two-year training program at Pal-Waukee. Air-control candidates are no longer simply people with Air Force or other aviation backgrounds, he said.

THE TRAFFIC AT Pal-Waukee will continue to increase in the future, Ullsperger said, "and since there isn't any room for the airport to expand, it will be up to the air controllers to keep traffic here orderly."

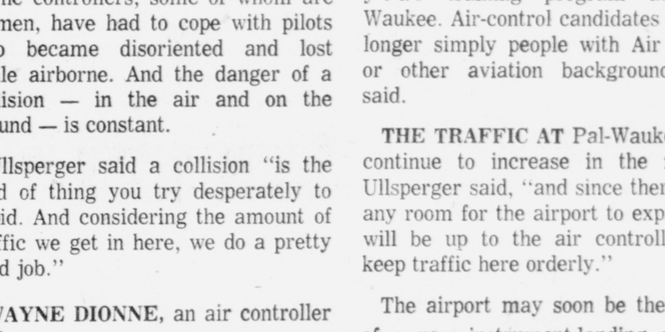

The airport may soon be the home of a new instrument-landing system that will aid the controllers in the landing and take off of planes by radar, he said.

"BUT UNTIL THEN, the controllers must rely on their sight and good judgment to get the planes down," he said.

Cost of attack by vandals may hit $100,000

Vandalism at Dunton School, Arlington Heights.

Damage may run as high as $100,000 after a vandalism spree during the weekend at schools in Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights, police said.

At Dunton School in Arlington Heights, and Gregory School in Mount Prospect, vandals late Friday smashed numerous windows, desks, audio-visual and office equipment.

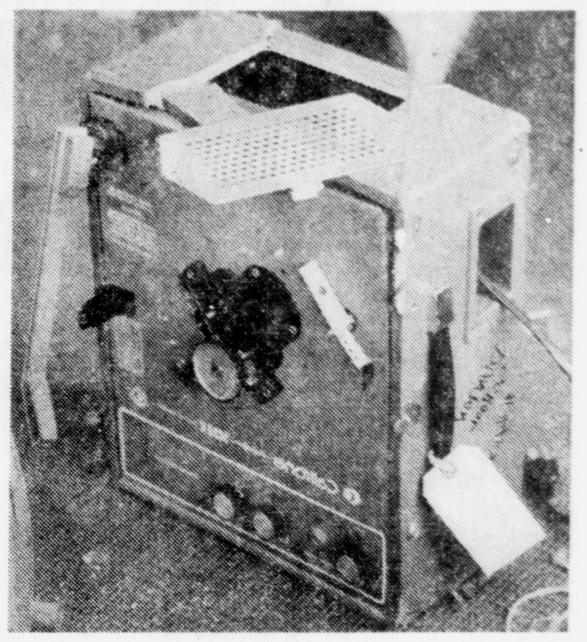

Police Sunday said they suspected the two incidents may be related because of the similarities in destruction.

Mount Prospect Dist. 57 officials said they will know by Wednesday if Gregory School, which is a special education school for the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, will open Jan. 5 when students return from Christmas vacation.

A spokesman for Dunton School said the school will open after the holidays, though repairs may not be completed.

Mount Prospect Police Sgt. Richard Yost said:

"I've seen some bad damage, but not anything like that."

All of Dunton School's audio-visual equipment was damaged.

The scene in Gregory School's staff lounge is typical of the destruction there.

Evanston man, 20, seized in incident

An Evanston man was arrested early Sunday for scuffling with a police sergeant, damaging a squad car, and breaking a window in a home after an accident at 1300 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights police said.

Paul B. Butler, 20, of 114 Clyde St., was charged with two counts of criminal damage and one count each of resisting arrest and transportation of open liquor in a motor vehicle.

Police were summoned to the Marshall Rife home, 1300 W. Euclid Ave., about 2:05 a.m. and observed a car parked in the middle of the front lawn, police said.

Mrs. Rife told police Butler threw a beer bottle through the window after the car drove onto the lawn. Sgt. Bud SaLee approached Butler, and Butler began to shout obscenities and attempted to push SaLee away, police reported. A scuffle followed, and Butler was subdued with the help of a patrolman.

Butler was handcuffed and placed in the rear of a squad car where he kicked the ceiling of the vehicle, police said.

Butler was released after posting $1,000 bond pending an appearance Jan. 23 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Adventures of your Garbageman

Notice Re: New Year's Service

New Year's Day is a holiday for our men, one of 6 during the year on which, per our contract, no garbage service is provided and no credit given.

As most residents know, these 6 holiday-service omissions are equalized among our 3 routes so that no route receives more than 2 during the normal year. To provide this equal treatment usually involves some schedule variations.

Accordingly, for the New Year's holiday, we will serve Thursday routes on Friday, and the next service for Tuesday/Friday routes after Tuesday, Dec. 30 will be on Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Under our equalization system, the next holiday-service omission for Tues/Fri routes will not occur until next July 4.

We appreciate your cooperation.

Things for kids to do when holiday doldrums settle in

Hunting Ridge teacher offers suggestions for handling the plaintive cry, 'I'm bored!'

The Christmas toys are "old," the batteries are worn out and the kids are getting bored.

Ma and Pa are ready to tear their hair out and wondering what to do with the youngsters until school takes charge again next Monday.

One teacher in the Northwest suburbs saw these frustrations coming and prepared her students' parents with a list of ideas to keep the kids busy and productive throughout the holidays.

JAMIE KNOBLAUCH, a second-grade teacher at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine, calls her "off the wing" ideas suggestions to "keep the angel's wings busy." She said many parents have approached her over the years asking for things youngsters could do that would keep them out of mischief and off their parents' backs over the holidays.

Her ideas have the youngsters helping around the house, reading the newspaper, writing holiday stories and drawing their favorite things.

She looks on her ideas as a "stepping stone to somehow make this vacation more enjoyable and rewarding for parents.

So for all weary parents, here are some things for the youngsters to do.

• Copy last year's notable dates on the 1976 calendar.

• Help plan the dinner menus. Find the ingredients in the cupboards and help mom be a good shopper by reading newspaper advertisements.

• Polish shoes for the family.

• Gather stale bread to feed the birds, and watch to see what birds show up for food each day.

• Help pack the Christmas ornaments and trimming away for next year.

• Read the newspaper travel section and plan an imaginary trip.

• Make your own thank-you cards out of index cards — and of course, write those thank-you notes for the holiday gifts.

• Keep a diary of the vacation.

• Visit the library to check out books to read. Have youngsters read everything from Christmas catalogs to almanacs to the yellow pages of the phone book.

License plate deadline extended

The deadline for displaying 1976 Illinois license plates has been extended to midnight Sunday, Feb. 15.

Michael Howlett, Illinois secretary of state announced the extension Sunday.

"Although we mailed more than 1.3 million sets of plates well ahead of schedule, there are still some three million motorists who have not yet purchased plates," Howlett said. "The extension is for those who would not have time to purchase plates before Jan. 1."

Passenger plates are now on sale at 398 banks and savings and loan associations throughout the state; 650 currency exchanges in the Chicago area; and at secretary of state's motor vehicle offices.

Effective Jan. 1, recreational vehicles will be licensed on a calendar year. The change affects camper shells, vehicles and trailers.

Recreational vehicle plates are being sold over-the-counter at the secretary of state's offices in Chicago and Libertyville.

The nearest Chicago office to the Northwest suburbs is 5401 N. Elston Ave. The Libertyville office is at 929 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Gas price up 5c in calendar 1975

Prices on regular gasoline went up slightly more than 5 cents a gallon in 1975 at downstate Illinois service stations surveyed by the Chicago Motor Club, it was reported Friday.

The average increase in Chicago area stations for the year was about 4 cents.

The motor club said downstate prices this week were 61.1 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 65.2 cents for premium as compared to 55.8 and 60.2 cents for the last week in 1974.

Prices in Chicago and Cook County now average 60 cents a gallon for regular and 65.2 cents for premium compared to 1974 yearend prices of 56.1 and 60.2 cents respectively.

Petroleum demand dips

The Federal Energy Administration reported that the demand for petroleum products for the four weeks ending Dec. 5 was 7.4 per cent below the same period last year, and 4.9 per cent below 1973 levels.

Americans' oil consumption during the period averaged 16.62 million barrels per day, the FEA reported. Motor gasoline demand was 0.6 per cent below the 1974 level, and residual fuel oil demand was down 18.6 per cent.

Demand for distillate oil was 10.5 per cent below the 1974 level.

The case for deregulation

Founding fathers didn't plan alphabet agencies

by TOM WELLMAN
(First in a series)

The way our founding fathers planned it, there were to be only three branches of government.

A bit less than 200 years ago, our fledgling nation's Constitution, with the ink hardly dry on it, spelled it out: the executive, legislative and judicial branches would comprise the federal government.

Today, as any student of the U.S. government can tell you, the alphabet-soup regulatory agencies make up a powerful but strictly unofficial fourth branch.

Dig into history and you'll find that regulation is as old as the Bible. In fact, it is sanctioned by the Old Testament, which contains passages regulating various aspects of economic life. (Even earlier, in 2100 B.C., the Code of Hammurabi established various uniform weights and measures.)

IN THE 1700s and early 1800s, there was little interest in U.S. regulation. The federal government did charter the first United States Bank and was active in promoting early road construction, but that was all.

What regulation did take place was a state or local matter. The separate states regulated ferry and bridge tolls as well as the prices that grist mills and cotton gins could charge.

But after the Civil War, as the railroads pushed relentlessly across the western frontier, regulation became more than just a state matter.

AS TRANSCONTINENTAL rail lines were completed, the railroads raised their rates and angered the farmers. By 1887, the farmers had succeeded in urging Congress to establish the Interstate Commerce Commission as the nation's first federal regulatory agency.

The ICC's first task was to set "reasonable" and "just" freight and passenger rates. However, the ICC didn't gain the enforcing power it presently has until the early 1900s when President Theodore Roosevelt and Congress approved tough and expanded regulatory laws.

The pattern of federal regulation was under way. New agencies followed quickly. In 1913 Congress created the Federal Reserve Board, in 1914 the Federal Trade Commission and in 1919 the Federal Power Commission.

PRESIDENT Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Great Depression launched a second wave of regulatory agencies.

In 1934 the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Communications Commission were created. A year later, the National Labor Relations Board was formed, and in 1938, to control the fast-growing commercial aviation field, Congress approved the Civil Aeronautics Board.

World War II produced the high-water mark of federal regulation. After the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, regulation became an everyday part of America life. It was necessary to conserve all kinds of national resources for the war effort, it was reasoned.

Wartime controls had lapsed by 1950, but not the powers of the alphabet agencies. During the 1950s and early 1960s, their power continued to grow, yet they received astonishingly little public scrutiny.

BY THE TIME President Nixon, once a fierce foe of controls, ordered control of wages and prices in 1971, most Americans had become well acquainted with the initials of a variety of government agencies.

FPC and FTC, ICC and NLRB, OSHA and SEC had all joined the lexicon of government. To a growing number of critics in 1975, these agencies have become a powerful arm of government over which no branch of government seems to hold decisive and complete control.

In one way or another, the alphabet agencies profoundly affect us. The prices they regulate affect the cost of heating a home, the price of railroad or a bus ticket or the cost of the food at a grocery store.

In addition, these agencies help determine what you see on TV or hear on the radio. They also regulate the sale of stocks and bonds and help prevent accidents in your office or factory.

With the exception of the ICC, all of these agencies have been created within the last 62 years. Only within the last year or two have a number of articulate critics emerged to question just what kind of fundamental role they should have in our increasingly complex society.

The way we see it

Drop or alter parking fund

Redevelopment of downtown Arlington Heights will be a key need of the village in 1976, just as it was in 1961, and it should be obvious that a measure adopted back then to encourage revitalization has in fact hindered the process.

We refer to the village's policy of requiring new or expanding businesses to make a stiff contribution for off-street parking if they cannot provide their own. For each required space the merchant cannot provide, a contribution up to $1,600 is exacted.

Village Trustee August Bettman has proposed the policy be changed or eliminated, and we think he has a point.

The fee has driven away some new businesses that might have settled in downtown Arlington Heights, and during the 15 years it has been in effect it has resulted in collection of just $96,000.

Of that sum, only $27,000 has been spent to acquire land for parking lots.

For years, the parking assessment has been justified by officials on the grounds that the village eventually needs a multi-story parking garage. However, the amount collected by the fund over the years indicates the automobile may be obsolete by the time the fund generates enough money to build a parking garage.

Attracting new businesses to the downtown area surely would add more to village revenue, both through increased property values and sales tax money, than the present fee.

It may be argued with some justification that businesses which have paid into the fund would be treated unfairly if it were eliminated. However, the inequity could be overcome by assuring that the money will benefit those businesses directly through adjacent parking or other public improvements.

The parking fund was seemingly a good idea, but it simply has not proved effective in Arlington Heights. It does not seem reasonable to continue a policy that has failed, and we hope it will be dropped or substantially altered.

Abortion 'weight to carry forever'

Fence post
letters to the editor

In answer to Jane Dickinson's Fence Post letter of Dec. 9, "Birth control called answer to abortion," I would like to reply.

We people in this world have to set up some absolutes for ourselves or we will have no governing order. That is, "two wrongs don't make a right" or "the end never justifies the means." I'm trying to say that the single girl is wrong in having sexual relations, and she cannot make it all right by having an abortion. Maybe the abortion will lift the financial worry and the embarrassment worry from her shoulders, but what does it do to her, her inner soul, her mind? She must carry this weight around with her forever, if she is a sensitive person. Maybe later in life when she wants children she will never have them because of her abortion. Having an abortion is not like having a tooth pulled, as many people would have you believe. It has ruined many women, even with its legalization.

ALSO, THERE IS another side. For the promiscuous, non-sensitive girl, one abortion will just lead to another and so on to skid row for her. Statistics show sadly enough that if this type of girl has one abortion she will show up for another.

I can't understand why society condones sexual freedom today. This is the whole problem. Many movies, magazines and TV shows make it seem so glamorous and cosmopolitan. And now we are reaping what we have sowed.

Many young people have become too self-indulgent to commit themselves to anyone in marriage. If I were a young, single girl I would never settle for just a bedmate. If a guy didn't think enough of me to commit himself, I would never go for it.

Yes, it is nice that we have reliable birth control methods for married people. Young, single people should have no need for them. I really don't think it's naive or impossible to turn back the tide and teach our young people sexual self-control and responsibility.

BY THE WAY, I agree it would be extremely hard to give up a baby; but adoption agencies do give them to very good people. The mother could rest assured that she did a beautiful favor, not only for her child but for two other human beings. I'm sure she would be abundantly awarded for her great sacrifice in this life or the next.

I know several people who were adopted and they are all grateful that they were given the gift of life.

Giving a child away is far harder than having a quick abortion, but it is the right thing to do if you cannot care for it yourself. It would be ideal for society to provide dare care centers for the single mother.

Yes, I would definitely say, "adoption not abortion."

Helen March
Arlington Heights

Law seen as constitutional

There seems to be some confusion concerning the constitutionality of Illinois' new restrictive abortion law. Many believe it is unconstitutional.

But is it? A three-judge U.S. Court in Missouri judged constitutional a restrictive abortion law almost identical to the new Illinois law. Few constitutional lawyers, whatever their views on abortion, are able to point conclusively to any feature of the bill that is unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court said in its abortion decision that the right to decide on an abortion was not unqualified, but that the decision can be limited by important state interests. One such interest recognized by the court is protecting the family unit.

The U.S. Court in Missouri pointed out that marriage, which establishes an important relationship, has always been subject to legislative control. Even in the precedent case upon which the 1973 abortion decision was based, Griswold vs. Connecticut, the Court recognized the right of privacy as basically a marital right, not a personal right.

CONCERNING THE right of the father in an abortion decision, the Supreme Court expressly refused to discuss this question in Roe or Doe, leaving that matter open for legislative or judicial interpretation.

As to the other provisions of the Illinois bill, one would have to search beyond the Constitution to find objection to the safeguarding of a woman's health by outlawing salt poisoning, an extremely hazardous procedure. Nor has it been proved unconstitutional to preserve the life of a live-aborted infant, prohibit experimentation on live-aborted infants, keep exact records on complications, inform a woman of dangers of abortion or the nature of the child being aborted.

A nation with a constitution that would outlaw these reasonable and necessary precautions would be ripe for a new constitution. But the Constitution of this country does not prohibit these carefully conceived safeguards to human life.

Life Committee

Abortion explanation important

In reading your editorial (Saturday, Nov. 29), I noticed that you failed to mention a third part of the new abortion law. This part says that before a woman has an abortion, the doctor must explain to her what will happen during the abortion, and to what extent the baby has developed. Why did you leave this out? This is a most important part of the law because the woman seeking an abortion will understand that the new life within her is not just a "blob of tissue" but a human being, like you and I.

As a high school student, I don't have much power over the people in our government. It is a very frightening thing for me to see all of this happening. How can children in our generation and my children's generation learn respect, a respect for life. What will the society be like when I am an adult?

NOW THAT abortion is legalized, there is a possibility of euthanasia among the deformed and the retarded and then what? I see this happening already. Others who are not capable of a "meaningful human life" will be exterminated. Will I live in a society where humans will be permitted to live only if they measure up to a certain standard? I am afraid so.

Something must be done now. There are so many couples who want a baby and can't have one and have to wait for sometimes years for adopting one. If the children are "unwanted," remember, we must eliminate the problems, not the people.

Carol March
Arlington Heights

Prefers adoption

Does Ms. Jane Dickinson honestly believe a dead baby is better than a baby who might not have all the food and clothing it needs? Wow!

If your answer is adoption, I would rather have an abortion than spend the rest of my life wondering, is my baby well fed, well clothed and surviving?

She should worry about survival?

Eileen Klehr
Arlington Heights

'Not home for all unwanted'

Donna Wojdula wrote that abortion does not solve the abused child problem. No one said that it would, completely. How does she know what goes through the minds of girls and women who are pregnant against their wills? Why does she think all babies not aborted get adopted by loving parents?? They don't.

Jane Dickinson is not against adoption. She's against forced motherhood. She explained that birth control is the first step, not the answer. Because birth control doesn't always work. There is no way to get around that fact. In addition the majority of women seeking abortions already have all the children they can manage. They could not possibly "give up" babies for childless women. A young girl cannot give up several months of her life just so sterile people can have a baby. It has to be a choice for the pregnant female to make, not the Catholic Church or the Pro Life people to decide for her.

I'M VERY glad that someone gave up their babies for Donna Wojdula to love. That does not mean there is a loving home for every unwanted child. The world is full of children, not just cute cuddly babies, that no one wants. The Pro-Life people have babies on the brain; what are they doing for the unwanted babies that grew up? Do they all adopt uncute 12 years olds, out of the Audy Home for instance?

The world needs only wanted babies at this time when the earth's resources are running out!! We cannot keep breeding thoughtlessly like flies. Unfortunately only adoptive parents are screened, some day perhaps all parents will be and child abuse will be history instead of current events. Until then however! Let us face reality.

Parametic care saved daughter

I'm not good with words, but I want to express my greatest appreciation to the Buffalo Grove paramedics for saving the life of our 2-year-old daughter, Veronica Penman.

It happened in the car on Thanksgiving on the corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights Roads. She had an obstructed airway and stopped breathing for no apparent reason.

My husband and I ran into the Enco station on the corner for help and off-duty policeman John Cremins tried to get her to breathe. Then, within minutes the paramedics were there and working on her with great concern. She was rushed to Northwest Community Hospital, where she had throat surgery and spent three days in ICU and three in pediatrics and now is home and doing very well.

I WANT to show my greatest appreciation to those paramedics, Curt Kramer, Terry Quinlin, John Fisher and Paul Tirney for such great concern and for saving her life and the many others they have saved. They deserve great credit for what they are doing. Thank you also to the Enco station and off-duty policeman John Cremin for knowing what to do. Keep up the great work!

A thought for the day: Irish poet, wit and dramatist Oscar Wilde said, "There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about."

QUEBEC, Dec. 29 — Gen. Richard Montgomery, faced with the loss of a huge number of his men by expiring enlistments, decided to attempt to take Quebec by storm with four separate units attacking both the lower and upper city gates.

Ask Andy

Salty chemicals flow into the sea

HOW DID SALT GET INTO THE OCEAN?

This is one of the popular questions that Andy's pen pals ask again and again. However, only one person can be selected to be answered in the column. So if you asked the same question, please do not feel sad or angry. You asked a good question — which means that you can ask at least a hundred more. Andy says, please try again and, who knows, one of your good ones may be selected.

The tangy taste of an ocean wave comes from a dissolved mixture of salty chemicals. If all the water in the global ocean dried up and disappeared, 50 quadrillion tons of these assorted chemicals would be left behind. This stupendous figure is 50 plus 15 zeros. A cubic mile of water is enough to fill a square tank one mile high and one mile wide on each side. This much sea water contains about 166 million tons of dissolved chemicals. Yet ages ago the earth's original seas were filled with fresh water.

This was billions of years ago, when the land was bare rock and the first rains deluged down to fill the deep, hollow sea basins. In time, the deluges gave way to moderate storms and gentle showers. Some of the rain sank into the ground. The rest ran down the slopes to join the seas. Along the way, the running water dissolved chemicals from the rocky minerals — and dumped them into the ocean.

Meantime the beaming sun evaporated moisture from the surface of the sea. This became vapor and misty clouds, all set to shed more showers of rainwater. However, the dissolved chemicals did not evaporate and rise up with the water vapor. They stayed in the sea. Every year, the running streams dissolved and stole more salty chemicals from the land — and dumped them into the sea. And there they stayed while the sea got saltier and saltier. Tomorrow, the sea will be a little saltier than it is today.

Actually there are dozens of different minerals dissolved in the sea, including traces of silver and gold. But the bulk of the material is made up of fine salty chemicals. The most plentiful is sodium chloride, alias table salt — which makes up 77.8 per cent of the mixture.

We are told that dripping water can wear away the hardest stone. It does so by dissolving mini particles of solid minerals. And every year several billion tons of salty chemicals are stolen from the land and added to the sea. Most of this material stays in the global ocean — which is why the sea gets saltier year after year.

Mark Chorvat, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chorvat of 815 Waverly Dr., Arlington Heights, has received a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia for having his question printed in The Herald's Ask Andy column.

Mark, a fifth grader at Ivy Hill School, submitted today's question.

He wrote the question to Andy in October after his mother, Marion, read the column and suggested that he and his sister, Sue, 9, send questions.

Competition at its best

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Jim: "Four spades looks like one of those automatic contracts. The defense starts with three rounds of hearts. South ruffs the third and goes after trumps. Maybe he finesses, maybe not. It doesn't matter. He loses a trick to the king and makes his contract."

Oswald: "When I watched Dr. Richard Greene of New Orleans play the hand in a regional tournament four spades also made, but there was quite a lot to the play by both sides. East took his ace of hearts at trick one and shifted to his singleton diamond. Now Dick was threatened with a diamond ruff in addition to his other three losers."

Jim: "I see how he avoided that. He must have cashed his ace and king of clubs, entered dummy with the ace of trumps, led the jack of clubs and discarded his remaining heart on East's queen."

Oswald: "Of course. Then, there was no way for East to put his partner in. The diamond ruff was avoided and Dick made the contract for an average score."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all interested persons that a Public Hearing will be held for the improvement of portions of Arlington Heights, Rand, Palatine and Hintz Roads, providing written requests for such a hearing are directed to:

on or before January 14, 1976. The approximate limits of this improvement are: on Arlington Heights Road from Lillian Avenue to University Drive; on Palatine Road from a point west of Highland Avenue to a point east of Burke Drive; on Rand Road from approximately Chestnut Avenue to a point approximately 1,200 feet southeast of Palatine Road; and on Hintz Road from a point 400 feet west of Arlington Heights Road to a point 100 feet east of Vista Road.

The improvement will consist of widening of Arlington Heights Road from its existing 2-lane and variable width pavement to a 4-lane roadway separated by a 16-foot mountable median. Palatine and Rand Roads in the project area will be widened from their existing four lane cross sections to three travel lanes in each direction separated by variable width medians. Hintz Road will be widened as necessary to effect a permanent improvement of its intersection with Arlington Heights Road. Vail Avenue is proposed to be cul-de-saced at its intersection with Palatine Road.

The proposed improvement will also include construction of new pavement, median channelization, concrete curb and gutter, new traffic and school crossing signals, sidewalk, drainage structures and appurtenances, highway lighting, and all other work necessary to complete the improvements in accordance with approved plans and specifications.

Acquisition of right-of-way in some areas will be required for the improvement. An Environmental Assessment Report approved by the Federal Highway Administration, as well as maps, drawings, and other information developed by the Village of Arlington Heights in conjunction with this project, and any written views received as a result of coordination with other agencies are available for public inspection and copying at the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Illinois, on Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., and from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Information is also available by telephone at the Village of Arlington Heights Engineering Department at 253-2340 during the same hours.

'People here need me'

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

It is obvious almost from the moment of introduction that Virginia Williams, R.N., is a "people" person.

If nurses in hospitals and clinics must of necessity be somewhat preoccupied with illness and life-support machinery and life-saving treatment, it is the distinction of Miss Williams family nursing practice that her efforts are devoted to caring for people and sustaining "wellness."

Miss Williams, McHenry, three years ago became the first nurse in the state of Illinois to hang out her shingle as a private practitioner in family nursing.

"I'm doing what I've been doing for 30 years. Only I was finally willing to say I'm not going to go away anymore; there are people here who need me."

MISS WILLIAMS took her nurse's training at St. Anne's Hospital in Chicago and worked in various hospitals for years. Now she has a master's degree in community health nursing from Northern Illinois University and has gone home to serve the health needs of the people in rural and small-town areas of McHenry, Kane and Lake counties. She has an office in McHenry and routinely makes house calls.

Her function, simply, is to fill in some of the gaps in health care left by the rest of the health system. In many cases, the need for outside assistance is minimal: people are willing and able to take care of themselves, with some guidance and support. In other cases, help is desperately needed but not readily available from the system.

"Saturday night a woman who had just brought her husband home from the hospital called me. He had had a stroke and needed an insulin injection. She didn't know how to give it.

"I WORKED WITH them on giving the insulin and then talked about the stroke and about all the strengths he still had — he could talk, eat, think, appreciate; he just had one side paralyzed.

"In spite of these deviations from health, life is still going on, and there is still a need to comfort and to help people recognize their strengths — their wellness.

"Family nursing is concerned with the total health of the community, but more with maintenance, prevention and rehabilitation rather than cure. These people are my clients — they're buying my services, but they are the patients of their physicians."

The majority of Miss Williams' patient-clients are elderly citizens whose homes she points out to a visitor as she drives up and down the streets of the little town. They are her friends as well. Many she has known a lifetime.

PERHAPS ONE HAS fallen and broken a hip and needs someone to come take her to the hospital — but not an impersonal ambulance with siren blaring and lights flashing to frighten other elderly neighbors.

And another is a widow who has just experienced a heart attack and who will die two days later in the hospital, but who needs a caring person to get some of her papers in order and take a house key before driving her to the hospital.

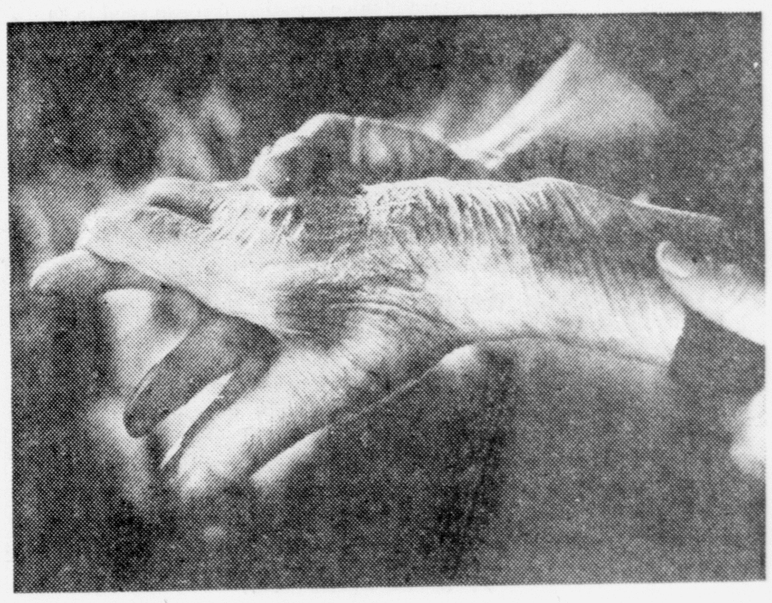

But more often there are the patients who return home with physical or health handicaps which they and their families must learn to live with.

To catheterize a cerebral palsy victim so that he may be more comfortable and that living conditions may be more pleasant for the family is a crucial starting point for the family nurse in one instance. It is something the family would not be shown by anyone else — and without which their home situation and the man's well-being might deteriorate rapidly.

VIRGINIA WILLIAMS believes there is a tremendous need for family nurses — and so does a visitor to her office, Betty Ozman, associate dean of nursing at Lewis College in Lockport. Lewis is the first school of nursing in this area to initiate a training program in family nursing and Mrs. Ozman has come to see about sending some students to observe Miss Williams' practice.

On a one-to-one basis, the nurses agree, many doctors are supportive of this new extended role of nurses. But there are still much fear and misunderstanding to be overcome among medical associations. Some physicians, Mrs. Ozman noted, outrightly oppose nurse practitioners on economic grounds even while acknowledging the need for this type of medical service.

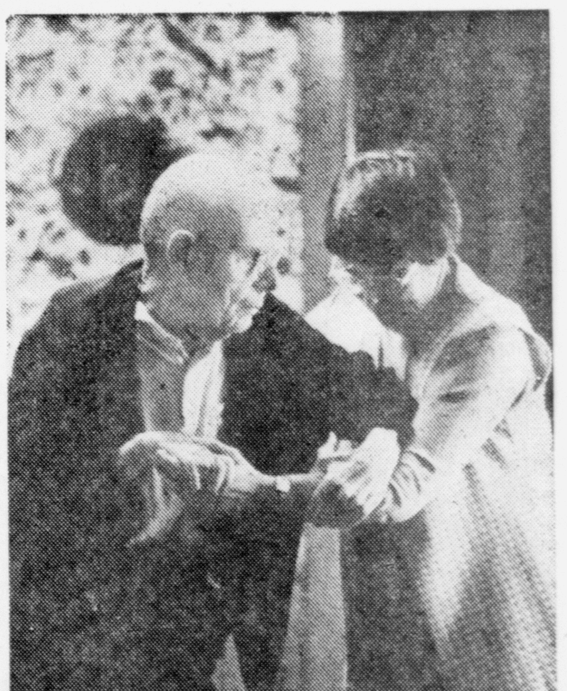

But just as Miss Williams' abilities to care and to nurse have been greatly appreciated by an ever-growing number of clients, her professionalism is also recognized by the medical establishment in her area: she is a member of the board of trustees of McHenry Hospital and of the board of directors of the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency for the tri-county area.

And life goes on

Helping people recognize their strengths—their wellness

There's still a need for comfort.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Problems with milk allergy

When I was a baby, I had a milk allergy and couldn't keep any milk down. I'm now 20 and drink milk without any problem. However, my doctor recently told me that because I had a milk allergy as a baby, I shouldn't drink milk now because I lack the enzyme necessary to split lactose.

He says it could cause me problems when I get older. Before I stop drinking milk, I would like your opinion. As I said milk doesn't bother me in any way now.

Another thing, my father has a spastic colon. I read in The Health Letter on spastic colon that a person who is allergic to milk (which my father is not) should eliminate all milk products. This totally contradicts what you say in The Health Letter on balanced diet. You state that a person who cannot use milk can get calcium by using more dry milk powder in his food.

Is it all right to use milk in one's foods if a person's allergic to it or not?

You are talking about two different things. A person can be allergic to milk and still have the normal enzyme to split lactose, the double sugar in milk. If you were deficient in lactase, the enzyme that splits lactose, you would have symptoms of bloating, perhaps diarrhea, and symptoms similar to spastic colon, with intermittent diarrhea and constipation.

I see no reason to limit your milk intake if you are having no symptoms from its use. If you don't have symptoms, you don't have lactose intolerance.

If you develop a deficiency in ezyme production later, that will be the time to limit or stop your use of milk

THE SYMPTOMS OF spastic colon and lactose intolerance are very similar. Some cases of so-called spastic colon are really unrecognized cases of intolerance to milk. The only thing I can suggest here is to use a trial period of eliminating milk and milk products and if that relieves the symptoms, there is a good chance that is the real problem.

Those who want more information on spastic colon can send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Now, if you have spastic colon symptoms for any other reason and have normal amounts of lactase enzyme, eliminating milk from the diet will not help at all. Most of these cases do better with a diet change to include more bulk in the diet, particularly cereal fiber in whole wheat-type cerals.

I SEE THERE is some misunderstanding about using dry milk powder. It is a good source of calcium, and it is true that you can inerease the calcium in the diet by using larger amounts of it in cooking, as in gravies. However, if you are intolerant to lactose or have a milk allergy, then you can't use dry milk powder as a substitute. Instead, you will have to get your calcium from calcium tablets or perhaps from a milk substitute, such as those used for babies with these problems. These are commonly made from soybeans, and unfortunately many of them are gas formers and that doesn't help the problem, either.

Moldy smell to items in damp basement

Dear Dorothy: I've had a box of pictures and books in the basement and the dampness has given it a moldy smell. I want to save these things but don't want to bring them upstairs with the musty smell. What might I do?—Mrs. Arthur Moll

First thing is to get some air movement down there. I think an electric fan is indicated. And dry, loose mold can be wiped off with a clean, soft cloth. Washable things can be wiped with a cloth wrung out of thick soapsuds, then with clear water — but this is tricky because you have to make sure nothing gets too wet. Stained things can be treated with a mild solution of household bleach and sponged with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

The book pages should be spread fan-style to moving air. Sprinkling on cornstarch or talcum powder will take up the moisture. Leave for several hours, then brush off. Restoring the picture may be a problem. You might try slipping one in cool water and letting it dry. If it works, go ahead with the others.

Dear Dorothy: Sometimes my cooked rutabagas are bitter. Is there any way to eliminate this?—Vida Slater

I understand that all rutabagas can be bitter late in the season and there is no way to change this except cook them with other things like onion or certain fruits. For instance, I'm told apples go well with rutabagas.

Dear Dorothy: Can sterling silver be washed in a dishwasher?—Glenna D'Angelo.

Any sterling silver — except knives with cemented handles — can be safely entrusted to the dishwasher.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Late Cowboy rally beats Vikings, 17-14

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Roger Staubach's 50-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson with only 24 seconds left to play Sunday gave the underdog Dallas Cowboys a 17-14 triumph over Minnesota.

Dallas, which finished the regular season with a 10-4 record to become the wild card playoff team, earned a spot in the NFC championship playoff game on the Los Angeles Rams' field next Sunday.

The Vikings had grabbed a 14-10 lead on a one-yard run by Brent McClanahan with only 5:11 left to play, but Staubach, who outclassed Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton in the battle of quarterbacks, wouldn't accept defeat.

Dallas was hemmed in inside its 22 by the rugged Minnesota defense, best in the NFC, the first time it had the ball. But Dallas stopped Minnesota after a punt and the Cowboys got the ball back on their own 15. It took only eight plays for Staubach to take his team to the winning touchdown.

He hit Drew Pearson twice on passes of nine and seven yards for a first down on the Dallas 31. Then after a penalty, Staubach connected on another pass to Pearson for 25 yards to put the ball on the 50. From there, two passes failed and on third down, Pearson raced deep down the right sidelines, stepping between two Minnesota defensive backs to take the ball on he Vikings' three and whirling into the end zone.

Dallas, a 10-point underdog, outplayed the Vikings throughout most of the contest.

The Vikings first touchdown was a fluke and Minnesota crossed into Dallas territory under its own power only three times in the game. The Vikings mustered only one genuine scoring drive, a 70-yard parade in the fourth period which gave them a 14-10 lead.

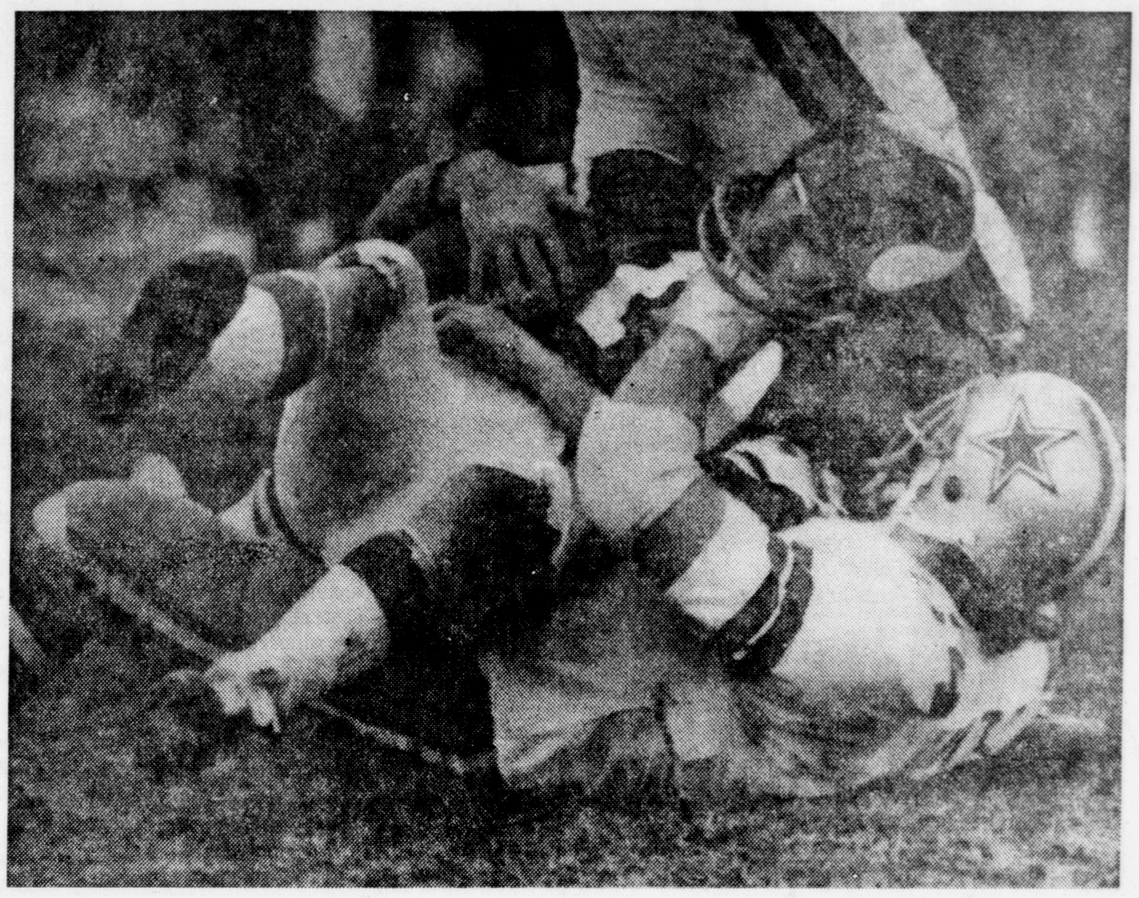

But the Cowboys, with Staubach completing 17 of 29 passes for 246 yards, powered their way into Minnesota territory seven times and wouldn't be denied.

In the first half, the Minnesota offense once got to the Dallas 37. In the last half, the Vikings reached the Dallas 28, where Fred Cox missed a 45-yard field goal try before Tarkenton directed the Vikings 70 yards in 11 plays to give them a go-ahead touch-

Tarkenton's father dies

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Dallas M. Tarkenton, the father of Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton, suffered a fatal heart attack while watching his son play aginst the Dallas Cowboys Sunday. He was 63.

BAGGED by Dallas Cowboy Randy White is Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton. The Viking quarterback lost twice Sunday — first the game, 17-14, and then was told his father had died.

50-yd. pass causes upset

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Drew Pearson put himself into a state of shock, his coach into a state of disbelief and the Dallas Cowboys into the National Football Conference championship game with one pass catch Sunday.

Pearson shrugged off a bumping contest with a Minnesota Vikings' defense back to come back for an underthrown pass, put it on his hip and twisted into the end zone for a 50-yard touchdown play with 24 seconds to play to give the Cowboys a 17-14 win.

"The pass was underthrown and I had to come back for it," Pearson said. "All along Roger (Staubach) kept asking me if I could get deep. Finally he ran out of chances. I told him this was the time. I gave Nate Wright an inside move.

"We were even when the ball was thrown and it felt like he bumped me. Anyway, we both saw it was short and both tried to hold up. I reached back and got it on my hip. I'm personally overjoyed, kind of in a state of shock."

"I can't believe it yet," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "But it was in a situation where it was called for. When the defense is playing deep in a prevent, you just have to throw it up there and hope the receiver can outjump the defense or just get lucky. He did."

Both Landry and Pearson believed the Cowboys dominated the game most of the way and were heading for a disappinting trip home until the final play.

"To hold Minnesota to 14 points is a remarkable feat," Landry said. "Our only hope was to throw and hope for a miracle."

Vikings' Coach Bud Grant contended Wright was the victim of offensive interference on Pearson's scoring catch. "It was clear as night and day that Nate was pushed," Grant said. "But that's the ball game. It's the old basketball play, push off and jump up to the ball."

"We feel the same as any other team that's beat in the playoffs, but it's harder to take when you lost on such a play."

Oakland builds big lead, then barely wins

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ken Stabler's third touchdown pass of the game, a two-yard toss to reserve tight end Dave Casper early in the fourth quarter, stood up as the winning score Sunday but Oakland's defense had to stop a Cincinnati threat with three minutes to go to preserve a 31-28 victory over the Bengals that sent the Raiders into the AFC title game against Pittsburgh.

When Stabler connected with Casper, it gave the seven-point favorite Raiders a 31-14 lead and seemingly iced the victory. But then Ken Anderson, the National Football League's top quarterback this season, threw a 25-yard scoring pass to Charlie Joiner after an interception by Ken Riley and 14 yards to Isaac Curtis to leave the Bengals only three short of a tie.

The Raiders, who lost out in the AFC title game to Miami and Pittsburgh in the last two years, had the ball at their own end and were playing out the clock when Pete Banaszak, Oakland's top runner, fumbled the ball and tackle Ron Carpenter fell on it at the Raider 37.

There was 4:17 left after Carpenter's fumble recovery but Anderson was unable to move the Bengals any closer to a score as the Raider defense, rated No. 1 in the AFC this year, stopped Cincinnati on four plays.

Stabler, who had 16 touchdown passes during the regular season compared to Anderson's 21, threw nine yards to Mike Siani and eight yards to Bob Moore for his other two scoring passes while Banaszak got Oakland's fourth touchdown on a six yard run. George Blanda, 48 years old, contributed a 27-yard field goal.

Stan Fritts ran one yard and Lenvil Elliott went six yards for the other two Cincinnati touchdowns.

For the Raiders, it marked the seventh time in their club history they have made it to the league or conference championship game. The Raiders won one of three AFL titles but lost to the Green Bay Packers in their only Super Bowl appearance and were beaten three times in AFC title games.

Blanda's field goal and Stabler's first two TD passes staked the Raiders to a 17-7 halftime lead and it became 24-7 when Banaszak scored four minutes into the third quarter.

A 24 yard interference penalty against Oakland's Jack Tatum gave the Bengals life at the Raider 42 with five minutes remaining in the third quarter and Elliott wound up a 91-yard, 11 play drive with his TD run to leave Cincinnati 10 points back at 24-14.

Petty? It can't be! Where are the scars?

The man seated across from me was an impostor. Of the first water.

I checked the press release again. It said this man was the man who had driven more miles over 150 mile sper hour in a race car than any man who ever lived.

I sized him up carefully. I was angry. Whom did they think they were dealing with — a fool?

"All right," I said at last. "Where are the scars?"

He looked startled.

"The what?" he asked.

I got grim. "Look," I said, "you can come clean with me. You're a race driver, right? The world's greatest? So, where are the burn scars? The skin grafts? Look at you! Your skin is as clear as a bell. Your eyes are clear. Your hands aren't clenched in the steering-wheel position where the plastic surgeon restored them. You got all your teeth, for cryin' out loud! And ears and eyes and legs. Who are you, anyway?"

"I'm Richard Petty," he said.

I knew I had him. I flipped my notes. "It says here," I said, letting him have it, "that Richard Petty has won 177 races in his life, more than any driver who ever lived, that he won 13 races this year, a one-year record, that he has been driving since the automobile was invented or thereabouts, that he has had over 700 races. That means he's had 150 fires, hit 75 walls, cartwheeled through 12 straightaways, left the track 17 times, and got in a 14-car pileup at least twice. Now, you come in here looking like a tango dancer and I'm supposed to believe you're Richard Petty! It won't wash."

"I had a dislocated shoulder once," he offered. He was brazen.

I snorted. "A race driver gets a dislocated shoulder horsing around in the pits. You'll have to do better than that, babe."

"But I drive stock cars. They're a lot safer than open-wheeled jobs."

I shook my head. "Try again, bud. I was there when Joe Weatherly forgot to fasten his seat belt. I read about Fireball. ANY car burns. So does any driver."

I studied his face closely. The trouble was, every picture I'd ever seen of Petty, he was holding a trophy in front of his face. I don't think there's ever been a picture of Petty without a trophy. I decided to play for time to find out what this fellow's game was and order some lunch.

"Like a cocktail before we eat?" I suggested innocently. "A double bourbon? Or did you bring your own moonshine?"

"I'll have a Coke," he said quickly. "That's all I ever drink."

I slammed the menu down. This, I had decided, was a police matter. This had gone too far.

"Listen," I said through clenched teeth. "I know Curtis Turner. I KNOW stock-car drivers. I never ran into a Coke drinker among them in my entire life. Just who are you anyway?"

I studied some pictures of his cars that he had brought. Like their driver, they still had all their essential parts.

"Why, this car looks as if it had just been driven off the showroom floor," I protested. "Tell me it has just been driven 500 to 600 grueling miles! It looks like a 'Nr. new, one owner, lo mi. demonstrator' traded in by a schoolteacher from Santa Barbara. Look, mister, I've SEEN race cars after 500 speedway miles. They look as if they've just been hit by a bus."

"I'll tell you what," the fellow smiled at me. "If you'll come out to a national stock race, I'll PROVE to you I'm Richard Petty."

I was suspicious. "Yeah," I said cautiously. "How will I know it's you?"

"I'll be holding a trophy," he smiled. "Just look behind it."

Palatine wrestling tourney opens with 16 units in impressive field

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Wide open.

Individually and collectively, this appears to be the status of the Palatine Holiday Wrestling Tournament, set for its 21st edition today at noon.

Sixteen teams, the brunt of them returnees, will be on hand for the big, geographically-mixed gathering which last year showcased a dozen wrestlers later to qualify for state.

Additionally H. L. Richards High, which polled 94 points to annex tournament honors last December, later captured the state title as well.

Five local units, including the host Pirates, are again in the running for honors today and tomorrow. The remainder of the teams come from such distant locations as Wisconsin, the far south suburbs and the western part of the state.

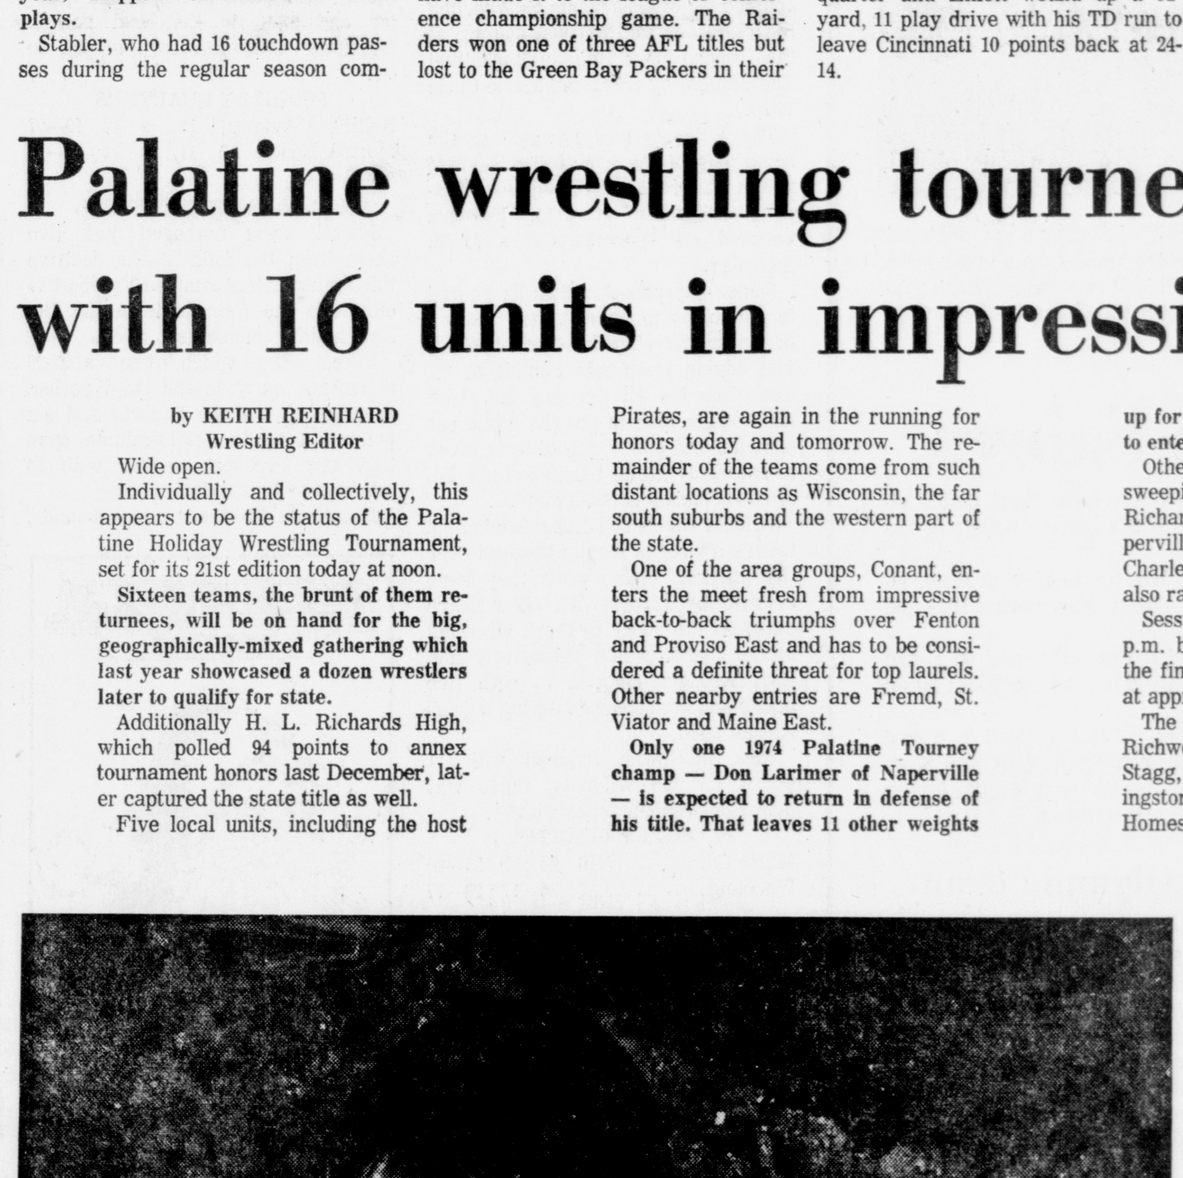

One of the area groups, Conant, enters the meet fresh from impressive back-to-back triumphs over Fenton and Proviso East and has to be considered a definite threat for top laurels. Other nearby entries are Fremd, St. Viator and Maine East.

Only one 1974 Palatine Tourney champ — Don Larimer of Naperville — is expected to return in defense of his title. That leaves 11 other weights up for grabs and allows no one school to enter the meet as a heavy favorite.

Other outfits given a good crack at sweeping to the team title include Richards, Downers Grove North, Naperville Central, Oak Forest and St. Charles. Palatine and Maine East are also rated outside picks.

Sessions will begin at noon and 6 p.m. both Monday and Tuesday with the finals tomorrow expected to begin at approximately 7:15 p.m.

The other teams entered are Peoria Richwoods, Quincy, Rock Island, Stagg, and Iowa-Grant from Livingston, Wis. along with newcomer Homestead from Mequon, Wis.

DAN'S THE MAN. St. Viator swimming star Dan Peonski is an area honor roll entry in four events. The Lions return to action Tuesday, Jan. 6 with a home meet against Hersey.

Saxons fall to Schurz on late rally

by ART MUGALIAN

The Schurz Purple Pride, who used to be called the Bulldogs, unleashed 6-foot-8 center Arnett Hallman Saturday night and it was the major factor in Schurz's 58-56 come-from-behind win over Schaumburg in the Luther North basketball tournament title game.

The Saxons, who used to be called defending champions of this 16-team affair, let a five-point halftime lead slip away. But, more than anything else, it was a testimony to the incredible ability of Hallman, an unheralded senior who scored nine points in the final quarter and blocked the Saxons' last shot attempt with four seconds left.

"Hallman's the best big man our kids will face all year," said Schaumburg coach Joe Breault before the title matchup, and the coach hadn't changed his tune when the game was over.

Hallman scored 21 points. He pulled down 16 rebounds. And — if anyone was counting — the big transfer from Austin High School must have blocked one out of every three Saxon shots.

Huskies, Wildcats, Cougars, Hawks in tourney wins

A Herald Staff Report

Four appears to be the key number for area basketball teams.

On Friday area entries picked up four victories in holiday tournament play. Four was the number again on Saturday.

Hersey, Wheeling, Hoffman Estates and Conant were the winners Saturday. Nine games will be played today (see scoreboard for schedule) with Prospect, Elk Grove, Arlington and Fremd kicking off their holiday play.

HUSKIES PULL IT OUT

A last-second 15-footer by Tom Frye gave Hersey a 53-52 victory over York in the quarterfinals of the York holiday tourney Saturday night.

The Huskies, now 8-2, trailed by a point with 30 seconds left in the game when they stole the ball from York off their half-court zone trap press. Hersey coach Roger Steingraber then called his last timeout.

"I told them to go into our open offense," said Steingraber. "We wanted the last shot, but they were in a zone and we couldn't get the ball inside where we wanted it.

"So we went into a zone offense with 10 seconds left and that's how Frye got open," Steingraber said.

Frye's shot from the top of the circle came with two seconds left and gave York no chance to answer.

York pulled out to a 36-29 halftime lead as 6-5 Pete Clancy scored 17 points, but a defensive switch — putting Clyde Glass on Clancy — held the York star to just three points in the second half.

Hersey was led by Jay McDermott's 16 points, followed by Tom Burzak's 14 and Frye's 10. Glass had nine.

The Huskies meet Holy Cross in the semifinal round at 8:30 tonight.

SULASKI SAVES COUGARS

Conant center Ron Sulaski hit a three point play with five seconds left in overtime to power the Cougars to a 43-42 win over Glenbard North in the consolation bracket of the York Holiday Tournament.

"Ron really came through for us at the end," said Conant head coach Dick Redlinger. "He really went to work in the overtime."

The Cougars blew open a 12-point lead in the second quarter and then watched Glenbard North trim it away to force a 38-38 tie at the end of regulation time.

"We just ran out of gas in the second half," Redlinger commented. "We had the inside shots we wanted but they wouldn't fall."

Glenbard built a four point lead in the overtime before Sulaski started to work his magic.

Taking a nifty pass from Pete Scaffidi the 6-5 center flipped in a reverse layup to trim the lead to two.

Scaffidi then came up with a steal to give Conant the ball with 29 seconds remaining.

"I told them to work the clock down then get the ball inside to try for the three point play," Redlinger said. "It worked out really well."

The Cougars brought the ball the length of the court, chewed 24 seconds off the clock, then got the ball to Sulaski for a layup and the foul. He hit the free throw, giving him a team high of 15 points for the game, and sent the Cougars into today's 12:15 p.m. match with Glenbard East.

WHEELING REBOUNDS

The inside-outside combination of Keith Schildt and Dave Schultz accounted for over 50 points as Wheeling bounced back into the win column at the Proviso West Holiday Basketball Tournament by trimming Marie Curie 77-69.

The Wildcats now advance to the semifinals of the consolation bracket where they are pitted against Fenwick Monday at 3:15. Fenwick knocked off Downers Grove North Saturday.

Senior sharpshooter Schultz poured in 26 points to snare game scoring honors in the Wheeling-Curie hookup, just edging teammate Schildt at 25. The 'Cats led all the way but were never quite able to put the game out of reach and saw a gap of ten shaved to two early in the fourth quarter before Wheeling's defense dug in.

Wildcat coach Ted Ecker lauded his team's efforts as much improved over the previous night, when they were crushed by Libertyville. Glen Barry came off the bench to spark Wheeling in the fourth period defensively and Karl Krueger chipped in with five points and six rebounds during a four-minute span.

Rick McGowan finished with 11 points for the Wildcats. Curie was paced by Wendell Jones with 21.

HAWKS HAMMER PANTHERS

The Hoffman Estates Hawks registered some all-time bests while rolling over Round Lake in the Grayslake tourney, 70-49.

Keying the victory was a "real good second quarter," said Coach Jerry Segebrecht of the 27-point outburst. "It was probably the best we ever had." The Hawks hit 10 straight free throws to open that period and were almost as accurate from the field, making six of eight to lead 43-22 at the half.

Round Lake made a minor rally, cutting the lead to 12 in the second half, but the Panthers couldn't come any closer.

Five Hawks reached double figures — Ron Warring 15, John Staback 14, Joe Gajewski 13, Gene Foster 13 and Jeff Curtin 12. Hoffman hit 50 per cent from the field and 80 per cent from the foul line — both season highs. The 70-point total was also a top mark.

Gajewski, a 5-foot-11 guard, led the team in rebounding with eight.

The victory, Hoffman's fourth against seven losses, earns the team a shot at the consolation title against the winner of Monday's Lake Zurich-Cary Grove game. The title will be decided Tuesday at 7 p.m.

MUSTANGS LASSOED

Rolling Meadows was eliminated from the Proviso West holiday tournament by a one-man gang 74-57, in the second round.

"He almost beat us by himself," Mustang coach Bill Weinberg marveled at the performance of Morton East's 6-foot-5 Don Strumillo who poured through 50 points on 17 of 23 shooting from the field and 16 of 17 free throw attempts.

Hitting from virtually every spot on the floor and against a variety of Meadows' defenses, Strumillo, who added 33 points in the tourney opener, forced the Mustangs to play catch-up basketball most of the way.

The exception was the opening quarter when John Carbery (21 points for the game) and Bill Wissen (14) vaulted Meadows into 17-11 command. But the Mustangs promptly complicated matters by fouling Strumillo who registered 18 points at halftime.

With Weinberg resting his foul-plagued starters, Morton East outscored the Mustangs 22-9 in the second quarter and 27-19 in the final period. Meadows' over-all record dipped to 4-6.

FALCONS HIT DRY SPELL

Forest View managed just five shots from the field in the decisive third quarter that enabled Freeport to eliminate the Falcons from the DeKalb holiday tournament, 54-38.

Forest View, which owned a 27-26 advantage early in the third period, managed just three buckets and six points during the eight-minute span that saw Freeport counter with 18 markers to ice the decision.

Despite a 22-19 edge in rebounds, the Falcons cashed only 34 per cent of their shots from the field and helped fuel Freeport's rally with 20 second-half turnovers.

Jim O'Rourke paced Forest View in scoring with 13 while Nate Adams contributed 10 and Bill Simon nine. Simon also controlled the boards with nine rebounds while Ray Michaelsen hauled down six.

WEST FALLS, 74-66

After leading most of the first half, Maine West faltered in the second and lost in their second game of the York holiday tournament, 74-66, against Weber.

The Warriors, usually a more deliberate team in setting up their plays, were trying to keep up with Weber's fast-paced style of play.

This may have been one reason the Warriors fell behind in the second half. Maine West controlled a five-point lead at the half but lost it quickly when Weber came out and scored six straight points to take the lead.

The lead went back and forth most of the third quarter with Weber owning a 52-50 lead going into the final eight minutes.

Weber thoroughly dominated the boards, pulling down almost twice as many rebounds as the Warriors. Weber had 18 offensive and 29 defensive rebounds for a total of 47 while Maine West had only eight offensive and 16 defensive for a total of 24.

Hawks tie Sabres

Stan Mikita's power play goal at 18:12 of the third period allowed the Chicago Black Hawks to tie the Buffalo Sabres at the Stadium Sunday night, 2-2.

Craig Ramsay went to the penalty box for hooking at 16:40, allowing the Hawks to rally. Assisting Mikita were Dennis Hull and Pit Martin.

Buffalo broke the 1-1 tie at 16:19 of the second period on a shot by Danny Gare. Earning one of the assists was former Black Hawk Jerry Korab.

The first period saw the Sabres jump off to a 1-0 lead on a goal by Richard Martin at 5:38. The Hawks came right back at 8:27 on a power play goal by Johnny Marks. Assists went to Stan Mikita and Cliff Koroll. It Marks' 12th goal on the season.

2 suburbanites on Olympic team

Two suburban young women — Leah Poulos and Nancy Swider were named Sunday to the United States Olympic speed skating team along with 13 other athletes at the West Allis, Wis., qualifying site. Poulos, of Northbrook, broke almost all the track records in the shorter distances, but could finish no better than sixth in the 3,000 meter event. Swider, of Park Ridge, won it in record time.

Two men and two women are repeaters from the team that represented the U.S. in the 1972 winter games in Japan. They are Dan Carroll and Charles Gilmore of Milwaukee, Poulos and Sheila Young of Detroit.

Also named to the 1976 team were Peggy Crowe, St. Louis; Beth Heiden and Lori Monk, of Madison, Wis.; Kim Kostron, St. Paul; Cindy Seikkula, Minneapolis; Jim Chapin, St. Louis; Eric Heiden and Dan Immerfall of Madison and Mike Woods, South Milwaukee.

Plenty of offense at Gator Bowl

Florida will be a slim favorite over Maryland Monday night when the top offensive team in the Southeastern Conference goes against the top offensive team in the Atlantic Coast Conference in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.

The oddsmakers says the 14th-ranked Florida Gators (9-2) should beat the 19th-ranked Maryland Terrapins (8-2-1) by less than a touchdown in the prime-time (8 p.m.) nationally televised (Channel 7) contest.

The Gators outgained even SEC champion Alabama and averaged more than 405 yards per game, while ACC champ Maryland averaged more than 375.

"Both teams have done relatively the same thing during the season," said Florida Coach Doug Dickey. "We both averaged about 14 points and 100 yards per game more than our opponents."

Penguins, Russian to meet on ice

The Pittsburgh Penguins take time out from National Hockey League play Monday night to meet the Soviet Wings in the opening of a four-game goodwill tour, but the Penguins are not looking for a tea party.

The Russians' itinerary during their visit in America is designed to earn them new friends. They play three other NHL teams before leaving.

Henry Armstrong helps inner-city youths

by TOM UHLENBROCK

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The only boxer ever to hold three titles is Hammering Henry Armstrong, and even he admits it couldn't have been done without the help of a rainstorm.

Armstrong weighed 126 pounds when he knocked out Petey Sarron in the fifth round to gain the featherweight title in 1937.

A few months later he won the welterweight title in a 15-round decision over Barney Ross.

Armstrong, now a minister and administrator of the Herbert Hoover Boys Club here, explained how he gained 14 pounds for the weigh-in.

"I ate a heavy breakfast of steak and eggs that morning, then drank water for the next several hours," he said. "I had to weigh within seven pounds of his 147. I just made the weight at 140, but I was too heavy to fight that night. I don't think I could have gotten that water out of me."

The fight was to be held in an outdoor arena on Long Island, N.Y., and Armstrong said it began raining just as they announced his weight. It rained for 10 days.

"I was lucky it rained," he said.

Armstrong, meanwhile, returned to training camp and was back to his normal weight of about 126 pounds when he finally fought Ross.

"I was a terror that night," he said. "I carried him the final four rounds because it was his last fight and they wanted him to go out on his feet. I could have knocked him out, but I didn't."

Two months later, Armstrong stripped Lou Ambers of the lightweight title in a 15-round decision.

When Armstrong left the United States to fight exhibitions for the soldiers in World War II, he held the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight titles — a feat never duplicated.

Armstrong, who was 63 years old Dec. 12, spends most of his time at the boys club. The club offers a variety of sports to inner-city youths and, of course, has a top-notch boxing team.

He also is a minister for the First Baptist Church, the oldest black Baptist Church west of the Mississippi River.

HENRY ARMSTRONG, left, the only boxer ever to hold three titles — feather, welter and lightweight — clowns with Muhammad Ali. Armstrong is now a minister and administrator of the Herbert Hoover Boys Club in St. Louis.

O'Brien: NBA challenging, but politics still first love

by IRA BERKOW

"Drivin' myself into an early grave, sorry to say," said Larry O'Brien, lighting another cigarette with the snap of a match. "But I am down to two packs a day."

O'Brien has, as the rest of us, his daily struggles, and his concomitant tragedies and triumphs.

Some of his triumphs are on symbolic display in his new office, where he is the new commissioner of the National Basketball Association. On the wall in a glass-enclosed case are 221 fountain pens. They were used by Presidents Kennedy and Johnson to sign 221 major domestic bills into law.

O'Brien, then special Presidential assistant, was credited with helping persuade Congress to enact legislation that ranged from civil rights to federal aid for education to Medicare to minimum wages.

His tragedies are not so displayed. One may catch a glimpse of them in his eyes, at times, but one must look closely behind his glasses and under the reddish-blond, ample and scraggly eyebrows. And even then the wateriness sometimes is not from sadness but from smoke.

He was, as far as he knows the only man ("by an act of God") that was on the scene at the assassinations of both Jack and Bobby Kennedy. And it was his office as chairman of the Democratic National Committee that the notorious Watergate burglars entered and bugged.

"The assassinations," said O'Brien, "were horrible aberrations, I believe. But the Watergate affair was a careful, insidious plot to corrupt our form of government. It depressed me terribly, and I still feel shaken by it."

He said he had been proud to be a politician, but after Watergate he just wanted to escape from it. When last June he was offered the commissioner's post (with a salary of $150,000 a year), he accepted.

"Going into the private sector, as we call it, was a very hard transition," he said. He lectured, he wrote an autobiography called, ironically, "No Final Victories." "I had had a certain level of involvement in politics for many years — it was so total — like a crusade, that days meant nothing, months meant nothing, every drop of adrenalin was flowing.

"Now, I am not denigrating the job of commissioner of basketball, which is challenging, but I'll be honest, it is not politics.

"And yet it is important. I am administering a meaningful entity. This league contributes to the pleasure and excitement of millions of people. It is a significant aspect of American life."

It has been significant for O'Brien himself, who was born 58 years ago in Springfield, Mass. (where, coincidentally, basketball was invented), and where he was a YMCA player and, in his adult years, so great a fan that he recalls driving through snow and sleet 100 miles to Boston to watch the Celtics play.

There are frustrations in his new job, he says, as well as some early successes. He solidly worked out a problem, for example, that arose when two NBA teams laid claim to George McGinnis.

(The above may be indicative of his politician's gifts — which were also evident in his response to a recent question on the Church Senate Committee's findings; it stated that President Kennedy might have known about CIA plans to kill some foreign leaders. O'Brien said, "Just as I have no reason to doubt the Warren Commission's findings, I have no reason to doubt the Church Committee's findings.")

The frustrations at his NBA post include an enormous amount of litigation dealing with a merger, and with suits against the option clause and the college draft.

"I awake some mornings and sit on the edge of my bed smoking my first cigarette of the day," he said, "and I'll review the problems of basketball, and I think, 'So what else is new?' There is still bickering, selfishness, lack of understanding. It makes you sad.

"And now that I'm just a curbstone observer of Washington, I can see that even after all that has gone by, little has changed there.

"The legislative and executive branches continue to fault-find up and down Pennsylvania Avenue. It's 'Politics as Usual.' And this at the most critical and cynical period in American politics since Reconstruction days. When less than half of the eligible voters in the land don't vote, you know there is a lack of confidence in the system.

"Yet for all this, I believe, like Churchill, that although democracy may be a bad form of government, it's still the best one man has yet devised."

O'Brien said he misses politics, but does not envision himself returning. "Really what politics needs is a fresh look," he said, "and I'm an old hand. Succeeding generations have greater potential. If you don't believe that, you don't believe in progress.

"But I know it is hard to keep the faith, to keep a hold on yourself. I read the papers every day and every day there is a new confrontation, a new pestilence, a new murder, a new tragedy, and I wonder what the hell does it all mean?"

Saxons falter in title game around for him," said one Saxon who played the entire game. "Most of the time I couldn't find him."

But Hallman was almost always there, intimidating if not actually blocking. Three times he was called for goaltending, and he probably should have been nailed at least three other times.

Still, Schaumburg's 6-6 sophomore John Chmiel managed to shoot over or around Hallman for nine first half points and teammate Jon McIlraith got inside for a couple of baskets in the early going as the Saxons pulled out to a slim lead.

McIlraith finished with 14 points, tying Ed Chmiel for high-point honors. John's older brother had a hot hand from the perimeters, especially in the first three periods. John Chmiel scored 13, but none in the final quarter. Dan Breen had eight and Bill Solik seven.

A pair of free throws each by McIlraith and Solik and a free toss by Ed Chmiel gave Schaumburg a 52-51 lead with 3:09 left in the game, but it was the last time Breault's boys were on top.

Schurz's Rich Szukala popped a short jumper and Hallman hit a turnaround to put the Purple Pride up by three. After McIlraith used a good move to get free for a basket underneath, Hallman scored five straight points to seal the win.

But the big man had one more encore. With 11 seconds left and a chance to tie, the Saxons brought the ball down court. McIlraith took a long, 25-footer that just missed, but John Chmiel grabbed the rebound.

Chmiel's shot from about six feet was rejected crisply by Hallman, who batted the ball nearly off the playing area.

McIlraith and John Chmiel joined Hallman on the 10-man all-tourney team, giving Breault some consolation.

"A second-place trophy isn't bad," Breault said. "And this was a good learning game for us. We won't find a better defense center around, so I'm proud of the way we hung in there, especially on the boards. My charts showed that we were only outrebounded by four."

The Saxons, now 10-2, return to Mid-Suburban play on Jan. 9 against Prospect.

Maine West's matmen top Lake Park invite

Tom Krauser, Rob Krusinski and Dan Barringer all came up with gold medal efforts Saturday, rocketing Maine West to championship honors at the eight-team Lake Park Invitational Wrestling Tournament again.

Coack Dick Carlini's Warriors, who last year had to battle off Schaumburg for the tournament crown, were not even mildly challenged this time around, collecting 109½ pounts to win by over 30.

Romeoville collected 79 points and barely outdistanced Glenbard East (76½), Schaumburg (76) and Maine North (72) for the runnerup team trophy.

Krauser, Krusinski and Barringer were all repeat champs too. And the trio all earned their titles at the expense of Saxon entries. The Maine West cause was also aided by the efforts of Mike Tramel (third), Louie DePasquale (second), Craig Beam (consolation champ), Dan Cavazos (second), Ron Kaminski (consolation champ) and Bob Smith (second).

Krauser, at 98, slipped past Dave Cook of Schaumburg 6-5 to retain his crown. Krusinski roared to the 122-pound title with a pin, a 19-1 romp and a 6-0 win over Saxon Dave Slama in the finals.

Barringer caught a first round bye and then mauled his semifinal round foe 20-2 before stopping Mark Mandel of Schaumburg 8-2 in the 145-pound championship match.

Schaumburg's big point-earners, in addition to Cook, Slama and Mandel included Gary Bolger, who notched a couple of pins en route to the 185-pound throne.

Saxon Mark Zeller was a consolation champ at 105. Tramel earned his third at 126 after being knocked off by defending state champ Fred Ferrin of Romeoville in the semis. Ferrin was subsequently surprised by Lake Park's Bob Valasquez 9-8 in the finals.

DePasquale was runnerup at 132, after dropping a 7-6 heartbreaker to Maine North's Jack Beals. Beam rallied for two straight wins at 138 after dropping his opener, as did Kaminski at 167.

Cavazos at 155 also lost a toughie in the finals, 6-4. Heavwyeight Smith was stopped by the same score in his championship bout after pinning Sean Mozal of Schaumburg in the semis and Mozal then won 11-7 for third place.

Muenz second in all-around event at Rich

Jim Vokurka of LaGrange-Lyons threw solid routines through the afternoon and evening sessions to win the Rich Central All-Around tournament with 76.95 points.

Hersey's Danny Muenz took a second place with 75.15 points to solidly beat the third place finisher, Mark Williams of Lyons (73.95).

The meet drew some of the top all-arounders in the state and tested them with a preliminary judging at 1 p.m. to determine the top ten places. Those gymnasts were invited back at 7 p.m. for the finals competition.

Elk Grove's Matt Damore and Gene Christensen rounded out the other Mid-Suburban League all-arounders to place in the top ten.

Damore took fourth with a 73.0 score while Christensen placed in a tie for sixth at 67.75.

Legal stealer

Davey Lopes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, whose 77 stolen bases in 1975 broke Lou Brock's string of four straight years as the National League's leading base stealer, executed 38 steals in a row to break Max Carey's major league record set in 1922.

down with 5:11 to play.

Tarkenton completed four of five passes during the drive for 37 yards and Chuck Foreman, the second best rusher in the NFC during the regular season, carried four times for 28 yards. McClanahan capped the drive with his one-yard TD dive.

Dallas scored its first touchdown in the first seven minutes of the third period on a 72-yard drive in nine plays with Dennison scoring from four yards.

The Vikings got their first score when Minnesota's Neil Clabo punted and Dallas' Cliff Harris, back to receive, was hit on the heel by the ball. He was charged with a fumble. Fred McNeill recovered for the Vikings on the Dallas four, and on the third play, Foreman dived in from the one for the touchdown.

Harper collects consolation crown

The Harper Hawks dropped a first round game to Mayfair in the Highland Holiday Tournament, the third year in a row the Hawks have opened against the eventual champion, but then bounced back to whip Olive-Harvey and Loras College to take the consolation title.

The two for three weekend put Harper's record for the first half of the season at 6-9, including five wins in their last seven games.

"We've got a couple weeks off now," said Harper coach Roger Bechtold, "but we're really looking forward to the second half of the season. We're going to get some kids who will really help this team."

Against Mayfair the Hawks lack of rebounding strength hurt them down the stretch as they lost 101-87.

"We were even with them with nine minutes to go," Bechtold said. "But then they started to go to the offensive boards hard and built up their lead. We outshot them from the field, though (54 per cent to 48 per cent)."

Harper had four players in double figures for the game, led by forward Wally Butman, who canned 26 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Jim Arden flipped in 21, Scott Green 13 and Steve Loughman 11.

Mayfair dominated the Hawks on the backboards by a 45-24 count.

In Harper's two victories, the opposition still held an edge on the backboard but the Hawks continued to shoot well from the field.

They hit 42 per cent of their shots and made 30 of 40 free throws in their 96-74 win over Olive-Harvey.

Butman led the Hawks again with 24 points and reserve forward Dave Anderson had 19. The Hawks also placed Van McLeod with 15, Green with 14 and Mark Staddler with 12, in double figures.

Arden pumped in 23 points to lead the Hawks to an 81-65 over Loras College for the consolation title. Butman had his third solid game with 19 points. Steve Loughman added 16.

Mayfair knocked off Rock Valley for the championship and Sauk Valley took the third place award.

"It was a very fine tournament," Bechtold said. "The best teams in the state were there and I'm happy we did as well as we did."

LIONS FALL IN OT

It happened in the fourth quarter, it happened again in the first overtime, but it never had a chance to develop in the second overtime.

St. Viator, in their second loss of the York holiday tourney, had trouble holding the basketball and it cost them a 87-80 loss to Glenbard East in double overtime Saturday.

With 1:28 left in regulation play, the Lions had the ball with the idea in mind to run the clock down and then take a shot. The score was tied 70-70.

With about 15 seconds left they turned the ball over and the Rams took the lead. With two seconds left, Steve Nataro of the Lions took a 35-foot desperation shot which sent the game into overtime.

In the first overtime the Lions again had the ball and worked for one shot. This time they held on, with the score at 76-76, but couldn't work the ball in for a good shot.

Two key turnovers in the second overtime allowed the Rams six straight points and the Lions could never catch up.

"It was just a matter of not thinking," said Ron Creiger, Lion coach.

Nataro led the Lions with 24 points, Ralph Casciaro and Glenn Girard each had 22 and Paul Wiloff collected 10. Wiloff also pulled down 22 of the Lions 43 rebounds.

Tim Vandemerkt led the Rams with 19 points followed by Rick Krauchuk, who had 18.
